

Editor of IRSS web page

Vision Statement

This document outlines my vision for evolving IRSS web page to meet the demands of this internet age.

IRSS is a non-profit organization and one of premier organizations in the knowledge technology community. If named editor of IRSS web page, I plan several initiatives that will further solidify its place, and will make IRSS website an innovator that will outpace all other websites of organizations in this community, and indeed, will put IRSS in the forefront of scientific organization across all disciplines.

Our vision is for this website to follow the vision of IRSS to be a forum for contacts and exchange of information between members of scientific community whose research is related to the Rough Set Theory. The site will strive to illustrate the value of IRSS, and make it as a resource and inspiration for researchers on rough set theory and related areas. The IRSS web pages will keep members aware of our successes, the challenges we still face, and the ways that researchers on rough set theory can make a difference. In the coming years we will use a number of methods to accomplish this goal. I hope that people will come to this site regularly and use it as a resource and inspiration for their research.

The New Face of IRSS website

- Accessible IRSS resources
- Regular highlights of researchers on rough set theory and related areas
- Regular highlights of projects on rough set theory and related areas
- Regular highlights of latest papers on rough set theory and related areas
- Regular reviews of recent advance on rough set theory and related areas
- Monthly newsletter for subscribers
- Increasing the number of subscription
- Members-only blog and discussion page
- .....

With that obligation met, I pledge that if named Editor of IRSS webpage, I will devote my substantial energy, skills, insight, and passion to maintenance of this website of IRSS, and will do my utmost to innovate and strengthen the website of IRSS, to meet the challenges and opportunities presented by our times.
